

Learn More About Lighthouse LANDS

Lighthouse Lands is a non-profit organization working to overcome hunger and poverty in the rural countryside of Haiti through integrated sustainable solutions focused around education, empowerment, and economic development while sowing the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

Lighthouse LANDS teaches women sustainable agriculture on over 300 acres of land donated in the southwestern state of Grand'Anse, provide expanding access to education through Unity Bridge Schools for K-6 graders, as well as facilitate job creation through micro-enterprises.

Lighthouse LANDS was founded in 2010 by the Duprevil and Jean-Baptiste Haitian-American family in honor of rural countryside naïve Chamine Duprevil and her three small children who passed away when their home collapsed on them in Port-au-Prince during the earthquake. In the spirit of hope that filled Chamine's words and warm smile, her willingness to help others by sharing whatever little she had; Lighthouse LANDS continues to provide hope through children's education, women's empowerment, and community economic development.
